

FISHING CHARTER LINKS

FISHING AND BOATING DIRECTORIES

NOTES:

1) Not all websites/directories are created equally! Some are more powerful and better maintained than others and things change over time. So use your judgment and get your website listed on the better ones (the ones that impress YOU most) first before spending time on the others.

2) Not all websites/directories are free. Some charge a fee for a listing and are indicated below.

3) There are also major business organizations that you can join for a fee that have great websites where you can create a link to your website. These include the BBB and your local chamber of commerce.

4) Websites are always changing. We will try to keep instructions and links updated but they may have changed.

5) Some directories may not add your website right away.

6) You can also sign up and create profiles with a link to your website on Fishing Forums. You don't necessarily have to submit regular posts or fishing reports on all the forums but it's good to get listed anyway.

SEE OUR PAPER TITLED "FISHING FORUMS".

7) There are hundreds of general business directory websites where you can list your website. While some such as the Yellow Pages or BBB may be high quality and a useful place to get a link, the vast majority are either low quality or insignificant in the overall scheme of things. It's better to spend your time listing with fishing and boating websites or working on other projects to help your website rankings.

8) A warning about link services. There are link services available that offer, for a fee, to create links to your website on hundreds, even thousands, of websites around the world with the use of automated software. Beware! Google has penalized websites for using these services. The overwhelming majority of these links are on low quality directories, known as "link farms" that do nothing to help your website ranking. Google considers this practice as link spamming. It is always better to list your website one at a time on carefully chosen, high quality websites related to your business.
